About the College

Khun Khun Ji Girls' P.G. College, Chowk, Lucknow, situated in the Lucknow district of Uttar Pradesh, is the only institution providing higher education exclusively for girls in the western part of the city. The college has been playing a significant role in promoting women's education, especially among students from rural areas such as Mal, Malihabad, and Kakori, along with various parts of Lucknow.

In 1931, when women's education was scarcely prevalent, Late Rai Bahadur Harekrishna Das Khun Khun Ji established the Khun Khun Ji Anglo-Vernacular Girls' Middle School by inviting teachers from outside the province. Over time, this humble initiative evolved into the Khun Khun Ji Girls' Post Graduate College. His son, Shri Krishnadas Khun Khun Ji, carried forward his father's noble vision with dedication and foresight.

In 1959, the college was recognized by the University of Lucknow to conduct B.A. classes under the Faculty of Arts, and in 1974, B.Ed. classes were introduced under the Faculty of Education. Continuing this legacy of growth, under the guidance of the former manager Shri Omprakash Agarwal Ji, the institution expanded its academic offerings with equal devotion and commitment. In 2023, the college further diversified its academic scope by introducing the B.Com. course, duly recognized by the University of Lucknow.

With a steadfast commitment to academic excellence, Khun Khun Ji Girls' P.G. College strives to provide quality education while ensuring the meaningful participation of students in both curricular and co-curricular activities. The institution emphasizes a teaching-learning process rooted in the rural context, fostering a sense of social responsibility. Upholding the spirit of humanism, rationalism, and empowerment, the college continues to serve as a beacon of learning, where every member of the institution contributes with dedication and enthusiasm toward the noble pursuit of knowledge.

About the Conference

The International Conference on “Advanced Perspectives in Research Methodology: Evolving Concepts and Emerging Approaches” aims to provide a vibrant platform for academicians, researchers, and scholars from diverse disciplines to exchange ideas on contemporary trends and innovations in research methodology. In an era marked by rapid technological advancement, interdisciplinary collaboration, and data-driven inquiry, the need to revisit and refine research practices has become more crucial than ever.

The conference seeks to explore new dimensions of research design, the integration of digital and analytical tools, and the ethical considerations that accompany modern scholarship. It encourages discussions on qualitative and quantitative approaches, mixed methods, and the inclusion of indigenous and context-specific knowledge systems.

By bringing together experts and emerging researchers from around the world, the conference aspires to foster methodological innovation, strengthen research integrity, and promote global academic collaboration. It serves as a catalyst for advancing knowledge creation and enhancing the quality and impact of research in the 21st century.

Objectives of the Conference

- To examine emerging trends and evolving paradigms in research methodology across disciplines.
- To explore the role of digital technology, data analytics, and artificial intelligence in research.
- To promote interdisciplinary and transdisciplinary approaches in modern scholarship.
- To highlight ethical considerations and responsible research practices.
- To encourage the exchange of ideas and best practices among international scholars.
- To strengthen methodological literacy and enhance the quality of academic research.
